Greetings from the Walter Ridley Scholarship Family of Funds Board of Directors. I open this letter with a note of heartfelt thanks to you, our loyal and generous donors. Because of your support, in the 2016-2017 academic year we sponsor 13 incredible Scholars on Grounds that will carry the torch of Dr. Ridley’s commitment to excellence. Without you, our Scholars’ future legacy would not be possible.

During the past two years, the Ridley Board of Directors sought to fundamentally transform how the board strategizes, operates and serves.

As a leadership group, we focused on development and recruiting strategies to guide us in the battle for attracting the best African-American students to the University in a climate of competitive merit-based scholarships from other institutions. We created a governance operational structure that enables the board to use its talents to focus on cultivating relationships with individual donors, corporations and the University community. Finally, we transformed how we serve our Scholars by providing more enrichment opportunities to help expand their experiences both on and off Grounds.

In 2014, we were gearing up for an uncertain future as we searched for a new dedicated Director of Development. In 2015, we focused on regaining our fundraising momentum. In 2016, we set our sights on expanding the talent pool of the Board of Directors and mapping an aggressive development plan to commemorate the Ridley Scholarship Family of Funds 30th Anniversary. During this two-year span and while recalibrating board operations, our corpus still grew from $10.3M to $11.2M.

As we share the fiscal details from the past operating year, we acknowledge that we’ve come a long way since 1987 and offering book scholarships. We certainly celebrate and honor our past, but believe that we can do more. We must do more to successfully compete for the best African-American scholars. We will continue our aspirations of offering full-ride merit scholarships while advancing the University’s commitment to academic excellence and diversity on Grounds.

The Board of Directors will continue to humbly serve its Scholars and the University. But the future success of the Ridley Scholarship Family Funds for the next 30 years requires your continued support to nurture our village of scholars. We truly appreciate your steadfast commitment to serving as “our village;” a body of believers that will help us raise the next generation of world leaders.

It’s been a pleasure serving you, our Scholars and the University. Honoring the Past...Envisioning the Future.

Outgoing Chair
Ridley Scholarship Family of Funds
LETTER FROM THE INCOMING CHAIR

As the new chair of the Ridley Scholarship Family of Funds, it is my honor to present to you our 2016 Annual Report. This year’s theme is “Honor the Past. Envision the Future.” We “honor the past” in order to reflect on and express our deep appreciation for the donors, volunteer board members, Scholars, alumni, Alumni Association staff, University faculty and University administrators who have helped transform Ridley from a small book award to a multi-million-dollar scholarship fund. We “envision the future” in order to the meet the challenge issued to us by our former chair, Sharon Miller, to move Ridley from “Success to Significance.”

Implicit in this challenge is the notion that Ridley has already achieved success. We think this is true by any objective measure. Since its inception nearly 30 years ago, Ridley has provided financial support to over 300 African-American students at the University. These students have gone on to achieve incredible success as doctors, lawyers, college professors, business owners, inventors, corporate executives, and more. Our current Scholars are among the most academically gifted students at the University, often achieving grade point averages of 3.5 or greater. They are also among the most engaged. They serve as resident assistants, peer advisors, University Guides, Madison House program directors, fraternity presidents, and research assistants. They produce and direct critically-acclaimed plays. They teach college-level courses. They chair national philanthropic organizations. And two of our Scholars were recently selected to live on the Lawn during the 2016-2017 academic year.

Another marker of success is the value Ridley provides to its Scholars financially and programmatically. Ridley is now able to offer scholarships of $12,500 to in-state students and $40,000 to out-of-state students. Additionally, Ridley has begun to institutionalize a range of scholar programming and benefits to help enrich the scholar experience, including an annual community service project, cultural programming, regular receptions with faculty and University administrators, one-on-one mentoring with board members, and career counseling.

While we can certainly take pride in these achievements, in our view there is still a great deal of work remaining before Ridley achieves “Significance.” And what exactly is “Significance?” For us, it means being able to successfully compete with peer public and private universities for high caliber African-American students by offering scholarships that are more robust than our current scholarships. Recent experience has shown that Ridley is often at a disadvantage when competing for such students, particularly when they are considering private institutions that are often able to offer full scholarships.

It also means broadening the scope of our support for current University students, both financially and programmatically, as we understand that the University’s demonstrated success in graduating African-American students helps to attract more of them to the University. Stated differently, “Significance” means successfully attracting the best and brightest African-American students to the University and providing support for current students that fosters a culture of academic achievement.

Achieving “Significance” will not be easy. It requires that Ridley adopt a bold and ambitious fund development plan with well-defined, time-bound goals and objectives. It also requires that Ridley significantly accelerate its pace of fundraising. In concrete terms, we endeavor to increase the size of the Ridley Scholarship Family of Funds by nearly 20% within the next two years, and to double its size in six years. This will enable Ridley to offer scholarships covering tuition and fees in the short-term and full scholarships in the long-term, as well as academic achievement awards and other academic programming aimed at students at large. Such tasks may seem daunting, but we believe they are necessary at this critical juncture in Ridley’s history. We also believe that Dr. Ridley and the founders of the Ridley Scholarship would expect nothing less.

And as we prepare to honor and celebrate the 30th Anniversary of the Ridley Scholarship Family of Funds throughout 2017 and beyond, we thank you for your generosity to date and hope to count on your continued support as Ridley begins the next chapter in its storied history.

Chair, Ridley Scholarship Family of Funds
The Ridley Scholarship Family of Funds would like to thank you for your generous financial support of the organization and its mission to make the University of Virginia the preferred institution for talented African-American students. Your commitment and willingness to give over the years has sustained generations of Scholars and enriched the overall University community. I’m excited to serve as your new Development Committee Chair.

We’ve set forth to accomplish an ambitious goal of raising $2 million dollars by 2018, which will allow us to advance our existing scholarships to include full tuition and fees. Our strategy for the next year seeks to build on our current success, while developing new relationships with corporate foundations and donors. This is a critical strategic opportunity, as we compete for top students with other elite universities nationwide. We’re also excited to announce the launch of our 30th anniversary campaign, which celebrates the legacy of Ridley, and recognizes the 200th anniversary of the University of Virginia. We’ll provide updates on upcoming events and ways to participate as the celebration kicks off.

Our newest award, the Bryce Scholarship, is designed for students planning to study within the fields of science, technology, engineering, or mathematics.

These efforts would not be possible without the leadership of our full-time Director of Development, Matthew Brandon. His efforts are focused solely on making Ridley more impactful now, and for future generations. He is anxious to meet as many alumni as possible so he can share the Ridley story.

We look forward to working with you to grow the Ridley Scholarship Family of Funds, and thank you for your continued support.

Sincerely,

Brandon Woods ’03

Ridley Scholarship Family of Funds
When Dr. Walter N. Ridley graduated from the University of Virginia in 1953, he created a strong legacy and forged a path for those to come. For the last thirty years, your generous donations have made it possible for over 300 outstanding students to be awarded Ridley Scholarships and follow in Dr. Ridley’s footsteps at the University.

This past academic year (2015-2016), the Ridley Scholarship Family of Funds was proud to award scholarships for 12 phenomenal students who exemplify excellence in learning, leadership and legacy. Over 80% of our Scholars are Echols and Rodman Scholars as well. Their academic interests span a full spectrum including actuarial science, African-American and African studies, cognitive science, drama, engineering, environmental science, finance, French, global development studies, politics, Spanish, women, gender and sexuality studies, and so much more.

Aside from their shining academic achievements, our Scholars are leaving an indelible mark on the very fabric of the University. From revamping the University Guide Service to giving back to their fellow students as Summer Orientation Leaders, Residence Staff Members and Peer Advisors; directing and producing the theatrical movement that is The Black Monologues; holding leadership positions at Madison House and volunteering at Morven Farm; sustaining the environment with Green Grounds; participating in the Meriwether Lewis Institute for Citizen Leadership; dominating at ultimate frisbee, club basketball and club volleyball; being leaders in the Black Women’s Initiative and the Black Male Initiative; teaching a course on superheroes; volunteering and studying abroad in Brazil, China, and France; being selected as Rotunda Ambassadors; being chosen with the honor of residing on the Lawn—our Ridley Scholars have been afforded a unique opportunity and they have not taken it for granted. They recognize the investment so many donors, like you, have made in them and they are yielding an extremely high return on the investment.
During the last year, the Ridley Scholarship Committee has provided programming opportunities for the Scholars to engage in a variety of cultural activities. Last March, the Scholars traveled to Washington, DC, to attend the BET Honors. They participated in a Q&A session with the executive producers, which led to their appearance on stage during one of the televised performances. Additionally, one of the Scholars was selected as a production intern for the show. In April, the Scholars also had the opportunity to attend an Alvin Ailey Dance Troupe performance in Norfolk, VA. For the upcoming academic year, the Ridley Scholars will visit the National Museum of African American History and Culture.

Your support of the Ridley Scholarship Family of Funds has helped to bring each of these dynamic students to the University; our incoming class of first year Scholars is equally amazing and raising the bar. As universities become more competitive and education costs continue to soar, your support is critical in Ridley’s mission to attract and retain the nation’s most meritorious African-American students to the University that we hold so dear.

Thank you again for your generous support. It truly makes an impact and has helped so many students take ownership of the University in a way that honors Dr. Ridley’s legacy.

Sincerely,

Kiera Givens, Holland-Blackburn Scholar
I am a fourth year Echols and Holland-Blackburn Scholar from Takoma Park, Maryland, where I attended the International Baccalaureate Program at Richard Montgomery High School. At UVA, I am double majoring in Environmental Sciences and Anthropology. This past summer, I conducted research on oyster filtration at the University of Maryland Horn Point Laboratory, and am continuing that research this year as part of my senior thesis. I play for the women’s Club Ultimate Frisbee Team, and serve as a tour guide for the University Guide Service. Additionally, I am acting as the assistant stage manager for The Black Monologues this fall, and continuing to mentor advisees through the OAAA Peer Advisor Program. Upon graduation, I hope to work for a year and then attend graduate school in Marine Science & Policy.

Jacob Uskavitch, Inaugural Sylvia V. Terry Scholar & Paige Pre-Medical Scholar
I am a fourth year Echols Scholar, Sylvia V. Terry Scholar, and Paige Pre-Medical Scholar, pursuing a degree in Chemistry and African-American & African Studies. I attended Hume-Fogg High School in Nashville, TN. As an Office of African-American Affairs Peer Advisor, I aid in the transition of incoming African-American students. I am the President of the Iota Beta Chapter of Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity, Inc. We encourage youth to pursue higher education as we mentor at a local elementary school. Upon graduation, I plan on attending medical school as well as graduate study in the field of biomedical informatics, where I hope to improve the efficiency of health care through the implementation of future clinically operative technology.

Dominique Willis, Gregory Ledford Scholar
I am a fourth year Gregory Ledford Ridley Scholar from Baltimore, Maryland. I study at the McIntire School of Commerce where I concentrate in Finance. I am also a Cognitive Science major, concentrating in Cognitive Psychology. During my time at UVA, I have participated in the costume department of First Year Players, volunteered at a local preschool through Madison House, acted as a DJ on WXTJ student radio station, and worked at Morven Farm. In the fall semester of my second year I had the privilege of studying abroad on Semester at Sea; after my third year, I studied abroad for three weeks in China learning about Chinese economics, business, and culture. Additionally, I’ve interned at Facebook the past two summers on the Global Marketing Solutions team. In regards to my future professional pursuits, I hope to either intersect business and technology or finance and real estate.

Tyler Ambrose, Ridley Flagship Scholar
I am a third year Echols and Ridley Scholar from Roanoke, Virginia, where I attended William Fleming High School and the Roanoke Valley Governor’s School. I am a Politics Honors major and History minor. Over the past summer, I interned with the Virginia Office of the Attorney General. On Grounds, I am the Senior Resident of Woody-Cauthen and Co-Chair of the Academic and Career Development Committee of the Black Student Alliance. I also serve as the Director of Book Club for the Black Male Initiative. Upon graduation in 2018, I plan to pursue a law degree.

Bianca Decatur, Holland-Blackburn Scholar
I am a third year Echols and Holland-Blackburn Scholar from Durham, North Carolina, where I attended Northern Durham High School. I am currently pursuing a double major in Spanish and Cognitive Science. I spent my summer interning with Vice President Lampkin’s office through the Meriwether Lewis Institute for Citizen Leadership. I am heavily involved in the Black Women’s initiative, serve as the current Outreach Chair for the University Guide Service, and plan to continue working with the Meriwether Institute for the next two years. I also work in the newly renovated Rotunda as a Student Ambassador.

Stephanie Durham, Ridley Flagship Scholar
I was raised in McLean, Virginia, and am a third year College Science, Echols, and Ridley Scholar pursuing a double major in Environmental Science and Physics. I am a mentor for first year students through the Society of Physics Students, as well as a member of the Green Corner Committee of Green Grounds, which aims to implement sustainable practices in restaurants on The Corner. More generally, I am the secretary of Green Grounds. During my spring break, I participated in a student-run service project and am leading a housing and environmental conservation trip to Hilton Head, South Carolina in spring 2017. I stayed in Charlottesville this summer to research the diurnal and seasonal variability of winds, temperature, and turbulence in the Shenandoah Mountains. I also started as a DJ for WXTJ, UVA’s student radio. I am continuing both these activities during the upcoming year.
Micah Watson, Holland-Blackburn Scholar
I am a third year Holland-Blackburn Scholar hailing from Wichita, Kansas. I am majoring in African-American and African Studies and Drama with an intended minor in Studio Art, concentrating in Film. A playwright, director, and filmmaker, I am working towards a career in the film and television industry, particularly as a screenwriter. Additionally, I am a Miller Arts and Echols Scholar. Outside of my coursework, I am the producer and director of The Black Monologues, the president of the Paul Robeson Players, and the Co-Worship Leader for OneWay InterVarsity Christian Fellowship.

Jasmine Zollar, Richmond Ridley Clarence Cain Scholar
I am a third year Echols and Ridley Scholar from Mechanicsville, Virginia. I am double majoring in Global Development Studies and African-American and African Studies. Over the summer, I participated in the Meriwether Lewis Institute for Citizen Leadership at the University. On Grounds, I serve as a Resident Advisor (RA), the Programs Chair of the Kappa Rho Chapter of Delta Sigma Theta Sorority, Inc., and a Program Director at Madison House for Cavs in the Classroom, among other things. Upon graduation in 2018, I hope to pursue a career in the nonprofit sector.

Triston Smith, Ridley Flagship Scholar
I am a second year Ridley and Echols Scholar from Keysville, Virginia. I intend to double major in Women, Gender, and Sexuality Studies and either Neuroscience or Cognitive Science. Over the summer I interned as a photographer for Conviva Brazil (Brasil), a growing Nongovernmental Organization focused on education in and around favelas in Jurunas, Belém, in the Brazilian state of Pará. This year I will be an intern with the Gender Violence and Social Change group at the Maxine Platzer Lynn Women’s Center, and I will assist Wendy J. Lynch in her research on addiction-related neurobiological changes.

Michael Thompson, Richmond Ridley Clarence Cain Scholar
I am a second year Ridley Clarence Cain Scholar from Midlothian, Virginia. I am a graduate of the Maggie L. Walker Governor’s School in the City of Richmond. In high school I was an officer in the Red Cross Club and also worked closely with the Youth Philanthropy Project for two years. I have participated in the Bank of America Student Leaders program, where I interned at the Midlothian YMCA and spent a week in Washington, D.C., during which I visited Capitol Hill and spoke with several Virginia legislators. I am planning to major in Biomedical Engineering with an Engineering Business minor.

Micah Harris, Ridley Reid Scholar
I am a first year Ridley Reid and Rodman Scholar. I’m from Stafford, VA, and am a graduate of Stafford High School and the Commonwealth Governor’s School program. In high school I was a two-year Varsity basketball Captain, as well as an all-conference athlete, with an honorable mention for all-area. I was one of the devotion leaders of our school’s Fellowship of Christian Athletes, and was a member of the National Honor Society and Youth in Philanthropy. I was also a Wendy’s High School Heisman State Finalist. I plan to major in Electrical Engineering at UVA and am excited to get involved in the UVA community.

Christina Johnson, Holland-Blackburn Scholar
I am a first year Holland-Blackburn Scholar from South Orange, New Jersey. I attended Columbia High School and helped provide local and offshore communities with free dental services as the Junior Board President of a grassroots charity named KinderSmile Foundation. At the University of Virginia, I plan to major in Nursing, I hope to pursue my passion for philanthropy by starting a KinderSmile club and participating in Diversity in Nursing for a Better Community (DNBC). Upon graduation, as a nurse, I will strive to care for patients on a personal level and ensure that they are being treated with the utmost medical and emotional care.

Sydney Williams, Ridley Flagship Scholar
I am a first year Ridley, University Achievement, College Science, Echols, UNCF STEM Scholar, and Ron Brown Captain from Haymarket, Virginia, where I attended the Governor’s School at Innovation Park and Battlefield High School. During the summer of 2015, I conducted cancer research at Roswell Park Cancer Institute in Buffalo, New York as a part of the Summer Research Experience in Cancer Science. I was awarded “Best Poster Presentation” for my work on the role of androgen receptor in the survival of breast cancer cells. In high school, I was a Varsity Cheerleader and Cheer Captain. I was also a member of National Honor Society, National Science Honor Society, and Medical Club. I have also competed in numerous art competitions and displayed my work in exhibitions and galleries. At UVA, I plan on majoring in either Biochemistry or Human Biology. Upon graduation, I plan to attend medical school.
I tend to think of Ridley as a scholarship of potential. Yes, the Ridley Scholarship Fund seeks to select “the best and the brightest” African-American scholars and recruit them to the University of Virginia in theory. But realistically, it functions as a scholarship which provides students with extraordinary potential with unprecedented opportunities to succeed.

By offering its students freedom from the financial burdens associated with higher education, a network of supportive professionals, and a community of like-minded peers, Ridley enabled and encouraged me to pursue my wildest ambitions.

Each Ridley scholar that comes through the University is unique, not just because of their academic achievements, but because they come with a passion (or a few) that drives them and a genuine love of learning. I’ve seen that passion manifest itself as a love for the environment, community building, local politics, theatre and, in my case, superheroes.

Ridley offers its scholars the freedom to pursue these passions uninhibited, to see how they may use it to change the world in which they live, and they always find themselves encouraged every step of the way. Our ideas are not just entertained, they are nurtured and cultivated. Looking back, I can see that Ridley provided me with a “fertilizer” of sorts. With some scholarships, it is enough to reward current excellence; Ridley is deeply invested in future growth of its scholars. Having greatly benefited from Ridley’s magic fertilizer, it is only right that I continue to encourage others to invest in the Ridley Fund’s dedication to great potential.
TREASURER’S REPORT
FINANCIAL SUMMARY FISCAL YEAR 2016

At the start of the fiscal year, the Ridley Family of Funds welcomed the addition of the Sonja Hoel Perkins scholarship fund (“Hoel”), with a beginning value of approximately $833,000. With the Hoel addition, the funds reached a combined ending asset balance as of June 30, 2016, of $11.3 million.

Donor contributions of $291,000 were slightly lower than the $299,000 donated in the prior fiscal year. Unrealized investment losses of $188,000, a rate of approximately 1.8%, were driven by exposure to growth equities and emerging markets, which reduced overall fund revenue to $104,000. With the aforementioned investment losses, combined scholarship and operating expenses of $629,000 exceeded revenue by $525,000. We provided approximately $239,000 in financial support to our scholars during 2016, which represents a 6.4% increase when compared to the prior year. Total expenses were approximately 5.7% of the average net asset balance, reflecting a full year of operations under Director of Development, Matt Brandon, and increased spending on donor engagement and Scholar programming.

Much of my time during the Board’s recent strategic planning process was focused on projecting the necessary growth in our combined corpus to increase our scholarship spending by supporting more Scholars and increasing our average award. Two of our goals, among many, are to be responsive to the increasing cost of education and attract more Scholars to the University. Our projections indicate that we need to increase our scholarship corpus by a minimum of $2.0 million to continue our current level of scholar support into fiscal 2018, and maintain an expense ratio of 6.0% or less, in order to offer larger awards to a larger pool of deserving students. Increasing donor support and consolidating inactive funds into the Ridley flagship will be critical to our success. We will continue to focus on prudent management of the endowment distributions and your donations as we embark on a major fundraising campaign.

Respectfully,
